UNIT 2

Uses of have, can and could

- There are several expressions in English where have is used.
  Some of the most common expressions are:
  have breakfast have lunch have dinner have a snack have a meal have a shower have a bath have an argument have a holiday have a dream have a rest have a party have a chat

Note!

This verb is not to have got. Therefore, when we write the negative or interrogative form, we must use don't, doesn't, didn't and do, does, did.

She doesn't have a shower in the morning.
Do you have your breakfast at 7:30 a.m.?

We use can to:

- talk about ability
  I can play the piano.

- ask for and give permission
  A Can I borrow this book, please?
  B Yes, of course. / Yes, you can. / No, I'm sorry, you can't.

- talk about what is possible
  You can buy sun cream in this shop.

- We use could to talk about ability and possibility in the past.
  He could swim when he was eight years old.
  We couldn't take our car on the ferry.

Note!

Remember that can and could never change: I can / you can / she can / he could / we could...
We use can and could + infinitive without to:
I can sing. NOT ~~I can to sing.~~

1 Choose the correct answer a, b or c.

ABOUT ME

My name's Graham, I'm 14 years old and I'm from Manchester in the UK.
I live in a small house with my parents and younger sister. A typical day in our home starts at 6:30 a.m. I usually get up and feed the dog, and then have breakfast at 6:45. I have cereal with milk and a glass of fruit juice. I have a shower at around 7:30 a.m and then I get dressed and leave for school at about 8:00 a.m. I have lots of different hobbies. I can play the guitar and I can also ride a horse too. I can play football really well. I play for my local team every weekend.
When I was younger, I couldn't swim very well, but now I'm an excellent swimmer. My dad gave me lessons and he also taught me how to scuba dive. Every year we usually have a two-week family holiday in a country where we can scuba dive. Last year, we went to The Great Barrier Reef in Australia. We had a really good time. It was amazing!

1 When does Graham have breakfast everyday?
2 What does he do after breakfast?
_____ .
3 What hobbies and sport does he say he can do?
_____ .
4 What couldn't he do when he was a child?
_____ .
5 Where does Graham and his family usually have a holiday?
_____ .
6 What does he say about his holiday in Australia?
_____ .

UNIT

3 Inviting, accepting, refusing

In English we have different ways of making and accepting invitations. We can use:

- let's + infinitive (without to)

  A Let's go to the cinema.
  B That's a great idea. Let's go!

- shall we + infinitive (without to)

  A Shall we have something to eat?
  B Yes, all right.

- why don't we + infinitive (without to)

  A Why don't we have a party?
  B Yes, okay. / No, I don't want to.

- what/how about + verb + -ing

  A What/How about going out to dinner?
  B No, I'm tired. Let's stay at home instead.

- would you like + infinitive (with to)

  A Would you like to go to the opera?
  B No, I'd rather go to the cinema.

- what would you like + infinitive (with to)

  A What would you like to do tonight?
  B I'd love to go to the opera.

When we want to refuse an invitation or an offer and we suggest something different, we can use I'd rather + infinitive (without to):

A Would you like to come to my place for lunch?
B No, thanks. I'd rather eat out.

Note!

- Like is a verb for talking about your preferences.

  I like ice skating at the weekend.
  I don't like mushrooms.
  Micah likes sports cars.
  Elisa doesn't like loud music.

- Would like (or 'd like) is a polite way of saying 'want'.

  A What do you want to drink?
  B I'd like a glass of orange juice, please.

Would like is followed by the same structures as like, but the most common patterns are these:

Would you like a cheeseburger and chips?
Would you like to go to the cinema?
The teacher would like the students to be quiet.

1 Reorder the words to make invitations.

some, any, no, every

We use some, any, no and every with uncountable and plural countable nouns to talk about quantity.

We use some and any when it is important to know how many people, places or things there are.

We use some:

- in affirmative sentences and when we want to indicate an indefinite quantity

  There are some books on the table. (countable)
  There's some water in the glass. (uncountable)

- when we make an offer and expect to receive an affirmative answer

  A Would you like some biscuits with your tea? (countable)
  B Yes, please.

  A Would you like some milk in your coffee? (uncountable)
  B Yes, please.

We use any in negative sentences and questions:

Do they have any pets? (countable)
Is there any homework from Science class? (uncountable)
I don't have any money. (uncountable)

We use no in negative sentences when we want to say not... any more emphatically:

There's no information on the Internet about the festival. (countable)
There's no traffic on the roads this morning. (uncountable)

We use every to mean all people, places or things in affirmative and negative sentences, and questions. Every has a positive meaning and we use it with a singular verb form.

He plays golf every Sunday.
Every student in the class has got an exercise book.

Note!

Every is followed by a singular noun and the verb is in the third person singular.
Every student is taking the test.

1 Complete the sentences with some, any, no or every.

1 We've got _____ lemons but we haven't got _____ bread.

Compounds of some, any, no, every

	PERSON	THING	PLACE
some	somebody / someone	something	somewhere
any	anybody / anyone	anything	anywhere
no	nobody / no one	nothing	nowhere
every	everybody / everyone	everything	everywhere

We use somebody / someone, something and somewhere to talk about one person, thing or place in affirmative sentences:

Somebody drank my lemonade!
You look tired, have something to eat and then go to sleep.
Your mobile? It must be somewhere, it can't disappear.

We use anybody / anyone, anything and anywhere to talk about one person, thing or place in negative sentences and questions:

Is anyone going to the cinema tonight?
Is there anything on TV tonight? I'm bored.
I looked for the keys but I didn't find them anywhere.

We use everybody / everyone, everything and everywhere to talk about all people, things or places, but we use them with a singular verb form:

Everybody is welcome to join the basketball club.
I did everything I could.
Everywhere I go, I always find new friends.

We use nobody / no one, nothing and nowhere to talk about no person, thing or place. We use an affirmative verb with these words but the meaning of the sentence is negative:

Nobody likes me.
I like nothing in this shop!
The children hang out at the park because there's nowhere else to go.

UNIT

10 have to / don't have to

We can use have to to talk about obligation in the present and the past.
Today I have to walk home from college.
Yesterday, I had to clean the garage. It was so boring!

We use have to:

- to express habitual personal obligations. In this case, we use the present of have to + infinitive (without to). We form questions and negative sentences with the auxiliary do / don't / does / doesn't

  A Do you have to finish your homework now?
  B Yes, I have to finish it before four o'clock.

- to express non-habitual obligations, especially in colloquial English. In this case, we use have got to + infinitive (without to)

  A What has he got to do when he gets home?
  B He's got to wash the car.

- to express personal obligations in the past. In this case, we use had to + infinitive. We form questions and negative sentences with the auxiliary did / didn't

  They had to leave early because they promised to be at home by ten o'clock.
  Did she have to do the housework yesterday?

- to tell someone to do something, to talk about rules or when something is necessary

  You have to buy a ticket before you get on the bus.
  I have to take my medicine three times a week.

We use don't / doesn't have to when something is not necessary.

We don't have to wake up early on Saturdays.

1 Use have to + one of the verbs below or have to complete the sentences.

remember take talk make drive leave go be

We use should + infinitive (without to):

- to give advice

You should check that email before you send it.

A My tooth hurts me. What should I do?
B I think you should go to the dentist's.

Joanne shouldn't eat so much junk food.

- to offer assistance

Should I call the ambulance?

We use shall + infinitive (without to) to make offers or suggestions

Shall I call a taxi for you?
Shall we go to the beach?

Note!

Shall is only used with I or we. It is used instead of will to talk about the future only in formal English.

We can also use ought to to give advice and warnings.
You ought to / should have your car serviced before the winter.

The negative form oughtn't to exists, but it is less common than shouldn't.

1 16 Match column A with column B. Then listen and check.

Relative clauses

We use relative clauses to give more information about people, animals and things. A relative clause begins with a relative pronoun (who, whose or which), or a relative adverb (where or when).

We use who (and sometimes that) for people:
I met a man. He can speak five languages. → I met a man who can speak five languages.

We use whose to express possession:
We have a cat. Our cat's name is Fluffy. → We have a cat whose name is Fluffy.
My aunt lives in Paris. Her husband is Iranian. → My aunt whose husband is Iranian lives in Paris.

We use which (and sometimes that) for things:
I have a watch. My watch keeps time perfectly. → I have a watch which keeps time perfectly.

We use where for places:
This is the apartment. I grew up in this apartment. → This is the apartment where I grew up.

We use when for time:
In 2011 I was sixteen. In 2011 I got my diploma. → In 2011, when I was sixteen, I got my diploma.

There are two types of relative clauses: defining and non-defining.

Defining relative clauses give essential information about something or someone. They cannot be separated from the rest of the sentence by commas. In defining relative clauses, we can use that instead of who and which.
London is a city which / that has a lot of history.

Non-defining relative clauses give extra information about something or someone. We separate them from the main part of the sentence with commas. The sentence still makes sense without the clause. We cannot use that instead of who and which.
Capri, which is an island in Italy, is a beautiful place to go on holiday.
Megan, who comes from Sweden, is 14 years old.
New York, where my aunt and uncle live, is a big city.

1 Underline the correct relative pronoun.

17 First conditional

We use the First conditional to talk about something that is likely to happen in the present or in the future.

If I eat anymore chocolate, I'll be sick.

We use the Present simple in the If clause and the Future simple with will in the main clause.

If we recycle our waste, we will save our planet.

Note!

The if clause can come before or after the main clause. Use a comma if the if clause comes first.

If I'm tired, I'll go to bed.
I'll go to bed if I'm tired.

We can also write negative sentences and one or both of the clauses can be negative.

If we don't look after ourselves, we won't be healthy.

We write questions by putting the question words before the main clause.

What will you eat if you're hungry?

Note!

Use will and won't in short answers.

A Will you come to school if it snows tomorrow?
B Yes, I will. / No, I won't.

Note!

A way of expressing probability in the past is: probably + Past simple of the main verb.

UNIT 18

Second conditional

To express an imaginary situation, we can use: if + Past simple + would + infinitive (without to). This is called the Second conditional. As with the First conditional, the if clause can come before or after the main clause. Use a comma if the if clause comes first.

If I saw a ghost, I would be very scared.

I would visit your grandmother more if I were you.

Note!

Remember that with the verb to be we use were for all the persons.

We use the Second conditional:

- to talk about something that cannot happen in the present or the future
  If I had a boat, I'd be very happy!
- to talk about something that is unlikely to happen in the present or the future
  I would be really hungry if I didn't eat all day.
- to give advice
  If I were you, I'd drink more water.

We can ask questions with Second conditional sentences with and without question words:
What would happen if I pushed this button?
Would I be healthy if I ran more?

Note!

Even though the verb is in the past, the meaning is present.
If I didn't work, I would be poor. → But I work.
If I had money, I would give some to you. → But I don't have any.
He would buy a new car if he could. → But he can't.

Reported speech

DIRECT SPEECH		REPORTED SPEECH
Present simple	I am happy.	Past simple	She said (that) she was happy.
Present continuous	I'm playing tennis.	Past continuous	She said she was playing tennis.
Past simple	I phoned Tom on Monday.	Past perfect simple	She said she had phoned Tom on Monday.
Present perfect simple	I have been to Spain.	Past perfect simple	She said she had been to Spain.
Future simple (will)	I'll meet you next week.	would	She said she would meet me next week.
can	I can help you.	could	She said she could help me.
must	I must be careful!	had to	She said she had to be careful.

We use reported speech when we tell someone what another person has said. When we use reported speech, we change the tense, the personal pronouns (I, you, etc.), the possessive adjectives (my, your, etc.) and the possessive pronouns (mine, yours, etc.).

We usually use reported speech when we are talking about the past. So, the verb tense changes from direct speech to reported speech. The verbs usually turn into the past tense.

When the reporting verb is in the Present simple, the verb being reported doesn't change.

I'm really tired. → She says she's really tired.

Note!

We don't always have to change the verb from present to past. Look at this example:

I'm really tired. → She said that she is really tired.
I love cooking. → He said that he loves cooking.

The verbs used in affirmative and negative sentences are usually to say or to tell.

I'm leaving. → She said (that) she was leaving.
→ She told me (that) she was leaving.

In interrogative sentences the reporting verb is usually to ask.

Where are you going, Sally? → I asked Sally where she was going.

Note!

Be careful of the word order!

Are you tired? → He asked if I was tired.

say, tell

We can use the verbs say and tell to report what someone said. We use tell if we want to specify who the person is talking to, and say if we don't want to give this information.
Harry told me that he wasn't hungry. / Harry said that he wasn't hungry.
Joanne told him/her that she didn't go to the cinema. / Joanne said that she didn't go to the cinema.

ask

We can use the verb ask to report a question. When we report yes/no questions, we use if before the reported question, and we put the subject before the verb.
Kimberly: Are you sick?
Kimberly asked (me) if I was sick. (NOT ...if was I sick)

We don't use the auxiliary verbs do / did in reported questions.
Simon: Do you go to the park every Thursday?
Simon asked (me) if I went to the park every Thursday. (NOT ...if I did go to the park every Thursday)

We can also use question words (How, What, When, Where, Which, Who, Whose, Why) to report a question. The sentence begins with the question word just as in direct speech.
When are you having lunch, Megan?
He/She asked her when she was having lunch.

When there is an imperative, we must decide whether it is a command or a request.
Command:
Be quiet. → The teacher told them to be quiet.

Request:
Pass me the salt, please. → I asked him to pass me the salt.

Note!
In affirmative imperative sentences, the imperative changes to the infinitive.

In negative imperative sentences, the imperative becomes not + infinitive.
Please don't shout. → He asked them not to shout.

1 Match the direct speech in column A to the reported speech in column B.

A		B
1	I'm not going out tonight.	a ☐	She said that they had given her a present.
2	Are you going to let me in?	b ☐	They said they wouldn't be late.

UNIT 20

used to

We use used to to talk about past habits and old routines when:
- the state or action lasted for some time, or happened repeatedly
- the state or action doesn't happen now
- the state or action happened a long time ago

We use used to + infinitive to talk about a habit in the past which the person doesn't have anymore.
I used to play football a lot when I was young. [= Now I don't play anymore.]
We used to spend our holidays in Croatia, but we don't now.

used to can also be used for past situations which no longer exist.
They used to live in Canada but they don't anymore.

To make questions we use: did + subject + use to + verb
Did you use to walk to work?

To make negative sentences we use: subject + did not (didn't) use to + verb
We didn't use to walk but now we do.

Note!

There is no present form of used to. We only use used to to talk about the past. For present habits or situations, we use the Present simple.
She used to love coffee, now she loves tea.

Note!

We can use there used to be to talk about past states.
There used to be only one main road in my town when I was young, but there are lots now!
There used to be a park here, now there is a shopping centre.

1 Complete the sentences with used to and a verb from the box.

UNIT

22 Question tags and short answers

AFFIRMATIVE STATEMENTS	QUESTION TAGS	SHORT ANSWERS
She's at school,	isn't she?	Yes, she is. / No, she isn't.
He's got a dog,	hasn't he?	Yes, he has. / No, he hasn't.
You were tired,	weren't you?	Yes, I was. / No, I wasn't.
They visited Paris,	didn't they?	Yes, they did. / No, they didn't.
NEGATIVE STATEMENTS
Rose can't come,	can she?	Yes, she can. / No, she can't.
He hasn't got a pet,	has he?	Yes, he has. / No, he hasn't.
Jessica doesn't like tea,	does she?	Yes, she does. / No, she doesn't.
Tony isn't Italian,	is he?	Yes, he is. / No, he isn't.

Question tags are short questions that can follow sentences. We use question tags:

- to confirm our opinion
- when we are certain that what we say is true

We make question tags with an auxiliary verb (have, be, can etc) from the main part of the sentence and a subject pronoun (I, you etc).
It is warm, isn't it?
It isn't cold, is it?

If there is no auxiliary verb in the sentence we use do/does in the Present simple and for sentences in the Past simple we use did.
The film starts at 7 p.m, doesn't it?
They went to France last summer, didn't they?

When the sentence uses a verb in the affirmative, we use a negative question tag. When the sentence uses a verb in the negative, we use an affirmative question tag.

We can use questions tags in all tenses and with modal verbs.

Intonation

Intonation is important in tag questions. We can have four types of tag questions:

(1) A negative tag question with a rising tone.

E.g. …, isn't it?

(2) A negative tag question with a falling tone.

E.g. …, isn't it?

(3) A positive tag question with a rising tone.

E.g. …, is it?

(4) A positive tag question with a falling tone.

E.g. …, is it?

If the tag has a rising tone, it means 'I'm not sure, so please confirm that what I said is true'.
If the tag has a falling tone, it means 'I know that what I said is true, so please agree with me!'

1 Match the sentence halves.

UNIT 23

The passive

We use the passive voice:

- when we are more interested in the action than the person doing it
  The new computers at school were used a lot last week.
- when we don't know who does the action
  The computers weren't turned off after the class.
- when it is obvious who does the action
  The art gallery was visited by many people at the weekend.

The passive is formed with the correct tense of the verb to be + Past participle of the main verb.

ACTIVE → Someone gave me a book.
PASSIVE → I was given a book.

ACTIVE → Somebody left the dog outside.
PASSIVE → The dog was left outside.

This is how we form the passive in other tenses:

Present simple → am/is/are (not) + Past participle
Past simple → was/were + Past participle
Present continuous → is/are being + Past participle
Past continuous → was being + Past participle
Present perfect → was being + Past participle
Future simple → will be + Past participle

Note!

If the person is mentioned we use by.
The window was broken by the boy.

UNIT

24 Verbs of sensory perception

To hear, to listen to, to see, to feel to smell, to taste, to look and to watch are verbs of sensory perception. They relate to the five senses: sight, sound, feeling, smell, taste.

Sensory perception verbs take many different patterns depending on the meaning you want to express. Below are the patterns showing the most important perception verbs:

- subject + verb + object (This is used for a single event.)
  I heard a noise.
  I felt a stone in my shoe.
- subject + can / could + verb + object (This is used with can and could and shows a continuing state.)
  You can see the moon.
  I can smell the fish.
- subject + Present continuous + object (This is used for an activity.)
  I am looking at a cool website.
  I am listening to my MP3 player.
- subject + verb + object + infinitive without to (This is used for a completed event.)
  I saw him take the money.
  I heard the aeroplane take off.
- subject + verb + object + gerund (This is used for a continuing activity.)
  I heard the car leaving the garage.
  I saw her talking to Hannah.

Sensory verbs are followed by a verb + -ing to indicate a part of an action, not a complete one.
I listened to my sister playing the piano. (= I didn't stay there and listen the whole time she played.)
I heard her singing. (= She was singing before and/or after I heard her.)

Sensory verbs are also followed by the infinitive (without to) to indicate a completed action.
I listened to my sister play the piano. (= Till the end of the performance.)
I heard her sing. (= From the beginning to the end.)

TR 2

Unit 1 ex. 4

Marsha's fifteen and lives in a big city. She's got a bright red moped and uses it everyday to go to school. She also uses it at weekends when she goes out with her friends. Her favourite sports are tennis and volleyball.

Nick's a farmer and lives in the country. He gets up at five o'clock in the morning to feed the animals, and then works in the fields. He works hard seven days a week but likes to go out with his wife to the cinema and go dancing at weekends.

Caroline's a history teacher at Hathaway High School. She loves her job and enjoys teaching children. In her free time, she gives students drama lessons. At the moment they're rehearsing for a play called 'Hamlet' by William Shakespeare. It's a difficult play but very interesting.

Sam's twenty-five years old and is a policeman. He lives and works in a small town in the UK. The people there are very friendly and his job isn't very stressful. He loves to go to football matches on Sundays and sometimes after work he rides his bike. He loves to travel and always visits places where he can relax. In his spare time he reads lots of books. His favourite are fantasy and adventure stories.

Conversation 1

Terry Hi, Diane. Why weren't you at school today?
Diane I'm sick. I have the flu. Could you tell me if we have any homework for next week?
Terry Yes, there's going to be a Maths test on Tuesday and an English test on Thursday.
Diane Oh, thanks. Anything else?
Terry No. But I hope you get better soon.
Diane Thanks!

Conversation 2

Anne Hello Jack! You're back early.
Jack Oh hi, Anne. Yes, I didn't have any lectures this afternoon at university.
Anne That's good. Actually, I'm glad I caught you.
Jack Oh yes, Why's that?
Anne Could you do me a favour, please? I have an English class this evening but my car is being fixed in the garage. Could you drive me to class?
Jack Yes, of course! What time's your class?
Anne It's from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.
Jack OK, no problem. What time do you want to leave?
Anne Well, I have some coursework to finish this afternoon, so could we leave here at around 7 p.m.?
Jack Yes, okay. Would you like me to come and pick you up as well?
Anne No, that's fine. A few classmates and I are going to get something to eat after the class.
Jack OK, cool. Well, knock on my room door when you're ready to leave.
Anne Great! Thanks, Jack. See you later.
Jack Bye!

TR 11

Unit 7 ex. 6

Ursula Excuse me, officer, could you help me?
Policeman Yes, Madam. What's the problem?
Ursula I think I'm lost. I'm looking for the Central Train Station but I've been walking for thirty minutes and I still haven't found it.
Policeman Well, you're in the right direction. Continue down this street past the traffic light. Turn right on Churchill Road. Go past the post office and Jefferson's Groceries. Turn left on South Street and walk for about 150 yards. You will see the station on your right.
Ursula Is it far?
Policeman Oh, not too far. It's about fifteen minutes from here on foot.
Ursula Fifteen minutes? Ah, my suitcase is so heavy. Is there a bus that stops there?
Policeman Yes, there is. Bus H stops in front of the train station. The bus stop is on the corner of Park Avenue and 7th Street. You can buy a ticket at the newsstand across the street.
Ursula How long will it take by bus?
Policeman Well, there's no traffic at this hour. It'll take about six minutes.
Ursula How will I know when to get off?
Policeman You can ask the bus driver but don't worry; the Central Station is very big. You can't miss it!

TR 12

Unit 7 ex. 7

1 You're hot and all the windows on the train are closed.
2 You're a tourist and you need information on how to get to the train station. How do you ask the policeman for directions?
3 You see a pair of jeans you like but you don't know if they fit you. What do you ask the shop assistant?
4 You see an old lady trying to cross the street. What do you ask her?
5 You forgot your watch and the bus isn't arriving. What do you ask the person next to you at the bus stop?

TR 13

Unit 9 ex. 6

It was a rainy, grey Saturday afternoon when someone knocked at my door. 'Who's there?' I asked. But no one answered. So I slowly opened the door to see if somebody was waiting. But there wasn't anybody in sight. Suddenly, I heard something make a noise. I looked down and saw a small, fluffy kitten stretching itself while it was looking up at me. 'It must be hungry, poor thing,' I thought. 'Let me get it something to eat.' And I went to the kitchen. When I came back five minutes later, the kitten wasn't there. 'It must be somewhere,' I thought, so I started looking for it. But I couldn't find it anywhere. It ran away.

TR 14

Unit 10 ex. 4

1 I don't want to miss my plane so I have to catch the 7:10 train.
2 I didn't do well on my last English test so I have to study more this time.
3 My mother is away this week so I have to do the housework.
4 I've used up all the coffee so I have to buy some more at the supermarket.
5 I'm not very good at Maths so I usually have to ask for help.
6 I've got a cold so I have to stay in bed for a few days.

TR 15

Unit 10 ex. 6

Sam Hi, Tony. How are you?
Tony I'm great! I've got a new job.
Sam That's fantastic! What are you going to be doing?
Tony I'm a product manager for a company that sells food.
Sam What do you have to do?
Tony Well, I have to contact the people who sell us their products and we have to agree on a price. Then these people have to send me their products and I have to send them to the supermarkets.
Sam That sounds interesting. Is it a difficult job?
Tony Well, sort of. I have to work long hours. I have to start work at five in the morning!
Sam Wow! And what does your boss do?
Tony He has to contact our international clients so he has to travel a lot. He has to travel to Ireland, Scotland and Wales next week.
Sam Do you have to go with him?
Tony No, I don't have to but I have to fill in for him in the office. I'm enjoying myself so far and I'm happy I don't have to work in that shop anymore!

TR 16

Unit 11 ex. 1

1 A I've got the flu.
  B You should stay in bed.
2 A My feet hurt.

Unit 11 ex. 7

Dialogue 1

Doctor Good morning, Miss Smith. How are you?

Miss Smith I have a terrible headache that doesn't seem to go away.

Doctor When did it start?

Miss Smith It started two days ago. Yes, on Tuesday evening.

Doctor Are you under a lot of stress lately?

Miss Smith Yes. I have a lot of problems with my job.

Doctor I think you should take some time off work.

Dialogue 2

Doctor Good afternoon, Mr Kane. What's the matter?

Mr Kane I have really bad pains in my back and legs.

Doctor Do you exercise regularly?

Mr Kane Oh, no! I don't remember the last time I exercised!

Doctor It looks like you're a little overweight, too. Am I right?

Mr Kane Well... Yes, I've put on some extra pounds.

Doctor You should go on a diet.

Mr Kane A diet?

Doctor Yes. What do you usually eat?

Mr Kane I love burgers and pizza. I also like take-away food.

Doctor You shouldn't eat that kind of food. You should eat lots of fruit and vegetables.

Mr Kane Anything else?

Doctor You should start exercising twice a week. Come see me again next month.

Mr Kane OK. Thanks for your advice.

Dialogue 3

Doctor Hi, Janet. What's the problem?

Janet I can't sleep at night.

Doctor Since when?

Janet Since about ten days now.

Doctor What are you doing differently in your life recently?

Janet Well, I moved house about a month ago. And I'm busy trying to organise everything.

Doctor By yourself?

Janet Yes.

Doctor You should get somebody to help you.

Janet I guess you're right.

Doctor And you shouldn't work until late. You should stop and have dinner and then you should relax.

Janet But there are so many things to do.

Doctor You shouldn't be anxious. Take your time and you'll get everything done.

Janet Thanks Dr Jefferson.

TR 18

Unit 12 ex. 2

Emily Have you ever been to the United States, Jessica?

Jessica Well, I've been to New York and Washington. I spent ten days there, but I've never been to San Francisco or Los Angeles.

Emily San Francisco is beautiful! I've stayed in San Diego, too.

Jessica I've heard it's a very nice city, too.

Emily Yes. California is a beautiful place. Have you ever visited Ireland?

Jessica No, I haven't. Have you?

Emily Yes, I have. I went a couple of years ago. It's quite different from California but it's just as beautiful.

Jessica I guess I'll have to go there too!

Unit 18 ex. 4

Monica Terry, what would you do if you won the lottery?
Terry Well, if I won the lottery I'd like to buy a lot of things.
Monica What would you buy?
Terry First of all I'd buy a new car. Mine is old and it's always breaking down. Then I'd really love to buy a house in the country.
Monica Where would you buy it?
Terry I'd really like a house close to where my parents live.
Monica Anything else?
Terry Of course! I would also donate a lot of money to organisations that help the needy.
Monica That's a good idea. If I won a lot of money I would do the same.
Terry And there's one more thing I just thought of.
Monica What's that?
Terry I'd like to go to an exotic place on my next holiday. And I'd invite you too!

TR 25

Unit 20 ex. 6

My town has grown quite a bit since I've been living here. It used to be a quiet town; everyone used to know each other and the people used to be very friendly. Now the town has changed. It's much bigger and noisier. There didn't use to be any air pollution either; now there is. There used to be small market stalls selling food. Now there is a big supermarket. The people are always in a hurry nowadays and they never have time to stop and chat. I miss that; we used to always chat when we met each other. I'm not very happy here anymore. I prefer the way things used to be.

TR 26

Unit 21 ex. 4

1 Megan must work harder.
2 We always ask that question.
3 They never do any homework in class.
